Ohio Cracking Down on Tax Breaks When Companies Fall Short

By Dan Gearino and Mark Williams

The state is getting tougher with companies that don't follow through on plans to add jobs and make investments in return for tax incentives.

The Ohio Tax Credit Authority revised or canceled incentive contracts with 105 companies yesterday, an unusually large number to be done on one day.

This is part of an attempt by the Ohio Development Services Agency to more closely monitor companies' compliance, and it is likely to be followed by similar actions involving many other companies, said David Goodman, the agency's director and the chairman of the authority.
